

Bowery Conflict as Concept

In order to position our project in the middle of Bowery's constant reconstruction, we have chosen to create a web platform that catalogues the conflicting forces—economic, cultural, and political—between process and outcome. To document the heteronomy of the neighborhood we will utilize various means of representation—photo, video, drawing, text, interview—analyzing the same section of the Bowery.

The Bowery is the oldest thoroughfare on Manhattan Island, preceding European intervention as a footpath, which spanned roughly the entire length of the island, from north to south.

The MAP is the Visual & Underlying Platform to which each metadata corresponds. It functions, both as a navigational tool & a Data Management Structure.

As we Interactively Map the Conicting Forces in Bowery, We are constant redrawing the Bowery Reconstruction, Hence building a platform that engages the current in the reection of its history, to delineate trajectories of the future.

Location, Date and History

The business now bearing the name of Wm. M. Olliffe, Inc., conducted at No. 6 Bowery, three doors north of Doyer Street, was founded in 1805. "The building in which it does business was erected in the eighteenth century" is the indefinite and probably incorrect statement in The Druggists Circular, July, 1927, p. 666, entitled "Is this America's Oldest Drug Store?" The question is in no wise answered in that article, but is fitting, nevertheless. Although founded in 1805, as averred by the present owners, there have been changes since 1805 in the ownership of the business and a slight shift in the location of the place of business. As for the age of this building compared with other old drug stores in this country -- that has been the subject of a special inquiry made by a writer quoted below, who finds neither the ownership of the business nor the building is as old as claimed by the proprietor's sign, conspicuously displayed in the window, which reads, "This is the oldest drug-store in the United States." The unique distinction of being the oldest drug store in the United States and "still doing business at the old stand" is held by the pharmacy of Simon Rau and Co., 420 Main Street., Bethlehem, Pa. There are several others older than Olliffe's Pharmacy. (See Historical Sketches of Old Drug Stores in this Country, by Otto Raubenheimer, in The Druggists Circular, Oct. 1927, pp. 998-991.)
